Bellevue Verdict Is Given

Bellevue, Alta., Jan. 14.—The jury in the case of the coroner's inquest into the cause of death of the thirty-one man who came to their death in the Bellevue mine on the 9th of last December, arrived at a verdict at midnight after hearing the expert evidence of James Ashworth, who was the last witness examined. The verdict is as follows:

"We the jurors in this case find that thirty men came to their death by carbon monoxide poison and a fractured skull; the carbon monoxide being generated by percussion caused by a rock slide, which occurred above 76 and 78 chutes. The following riders were attached to the verdict:

(1) That more inspectors be appointed.
(2) That a dragger apparatus station be established in this district.

(3) That telephones be established in underground workings under the supervision of the chief inspector wherever practicable.

(4) That a thorough investigation be made of means of preventing loss of life by cave-ins in mines.

(5) We consider that negligence is in evidence on the part of operators and miners in the carrying out of the coal mines act. And we would most strongly recommend a stricter adherence to the intent of that act.

A congregational meeting will be held in the Institutional Church on Wednesday evening 25th. Statements for the year will be presented, new members for the Board of Managers will be chosen. All members and adherents are urged to be present. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

E. Reynolds Passes Away

A Brilliant Mining Man, Who Once Held the Position of Manager to the International Coal and Coke Co.

Edward E. Reynolds passed away this morning at 6 o'clock at the family residence, on Luzerne avenue, West Pittston. The announcement of the end was not unexpected. For several years Mr. Reynolds had been suffering from an affection of the heart, and though he was not confined to his home until the past few months, it was noted that his condition was gradually becoming more serious. During the past few weeks he suffered greatly from weakness, and the members of his family were prepared for the end when it came this morning. Mr. Reynolds was perfectly conscious to the closing moment of his life, and passed peacefully away with the word "Jesus" on his lips.

In the death of Mr. Reynolds the mining industry loses one of its most prominent and skillful managers. His entire life had been past in mining work, and during the 25 years that passed since his graduation from college as a mining engineer he had held some very responsible positions in charge of mining operations. He was much in demand also as an expert on mining propositions. He seemed to have a natural bent for understanding mining problems, and this he had acquired through practical experience and through earnest systematic study in private and in public institutions of learning. As a mining engineer he was held in the highest esteem by those capable of judging such matters. Besides he was possessed of a very genial temperament that drew men to him and that resulted in the constant widening of his circle of friends. The untimely end of his useful life, at the age of only 50 years, is a source of deep sorrow, not only to the members of his family, to whom he was a devoted husband and father, but also to the host of people in this valley who had learned to esteem him for his superior mental attainments and his sterling character.

Edward Ellsworth Reynolds was born Aug. 28, 1860, in the village of Sebastopol, Jenkins township, where the Reynolds homestead was located for many years. He was a son of William and Hannah Reynolds and he came by his talent as a mining engineer naturally, his father having been engaged very successfully for many years as an inside foreman for the Pennsylvania Coal Co. at No. 6 colliery. His parents gave him the benefit of a good education. After attending the local schools, he took a preparatory course in Wyoming Seminary, later spent a year at Lehigh University, and in 1886 was graduated with the class in mining engineering from Lafayette University.

Soon after leaving college, Mr. Reynolds entered on his career as a mining engineer that was destined to take him to various parts of America and to place him in some very responsible positions. He began his practical work as a member of the engineering corps of the Lackawanna Coal and Iron Co., in Scranton, where he remained from 1886 to 1888. He then went to Knoxville, Tenn., where for three years he was employed as manager for the Standard Coal and Coke Co. Returning to the anthracite region, he held positions as mine superintendent for the firm of Simpkins and Watkins, at Carbondale; for the Langeliffe Coal Co., at Avoca; for the Parrish Coal Co., in Plymouth, and for the Pennsylvania Coal Co., in Pittston.

In 1901 occurred the death of G. M. Williams, who had held the position of state mine inspector in the Seventh or Wilkes-Barre district for many years. There was strong competition for this responsible and remunerative position in the most important anthracite district of the State, but, as a result of a competitive examination, the office was awarded to Mr. Reynolds, and he entered on the duties of the position in 1901, performing them with the greatest satisfaction for three years, when he voluntarily tendered his resignation, two years before the expiration of his term for the purpose of accepting a still more remunerative position which had been offered him unsolicited. This was the office of General manager of the International Coal and Coke Co., which was just opening a vast territory of rich coal lands in the vicinity of Coleman, Alta., Canada. In 1904 Mr. Reynolds went with his family to Coleman, and for the next three years he was actively engaged in extending the mining operations of the International Co. He was remarkably successful in this work of developing a vast coal tract, having more than met the expectations of the company. The work was arduous and it was in a rugged section of the country, the result being that his physical condition began to fail, the heart affection from which he suffered having become more pronounced.

In 1906 he left the International Co. and for the succeeding two years was mining manager for the Diamond Coal Co., at Diamond City, Alberta. Finally, in October, 1908, he determined to return to his old home here, with the purpose in view of opening an office as a mining engineer and avoiding if possible, the strenuous life of pioneer mining work in Canada. He and his family established their home in West Pittston and since that time Mr. Reynolds had been occupied as a consulting engineer in mining matters. He was frequently called into consultation regarding coal lands and mining operations. For the past year or more, on account of ill health, he had been unable to engage actively in any employment.

Mr. Reynolds was married on Sept. 13, 1888, to Miss Johanna Mahon, of West Pittston. Mrs. Reynolds survives, as do four children: William, a member of the Pittston Gazette; Harold, Edna and Johanna. One brother and two sisters also survive, John Reynolds, of Wilkes-Barre; Mrs. Isaac Jackson, of this city, and Mrs. Thomas Pierce, of Providence, Scranton.

—Pittston Gazette, Dec. 1910.

Railroad Activity

The announcement that the Southern Central railroad company will commence within twelve months, a railroad from Port Arthur to Vancouver, comes as a pleasant surprise to the people of the Pass. At the commencement of this spring a branch line will be constructed from Burnis to the South Fork, a distance of 20 miles. All opposition from the coal directors of the South Fork has subsided and the building of the road is now absolutely an assured fact. W. K. Knowlton of Port Arthur, the representative of James Cunniff was in town this week. He is most optimistic in regard to the coal mining properties of South Fork. These mines he claims to be almost equal to those of the Crow's Nest. The Southern Pacific Railway will parallel the C. P. R. through Coleman.

Mining Magnates

That Coleman is attracting capital for mining pursuits, is quite plain from the fact that well known mining men are visiting this town in quest of coal lands. Industries can be carried on so cheaply here, that the production and manufacture of coke will be a remunerative pursuit. Among those in town is W. B. Reilly of Howard Sask. Mr. Reilly was formerly the largest dry goods merchant in Calgary.
To-day he is one of the largest lado-copers in Saskatchewan. Now he turns his attention to the Pass. Mr.
Reilly states that several million dollars will be expended on developing coal lands, six miles south of Coleman, Hyron Sharpe and several prominent mining men in Spokane are in town looking for coal lands. The near advent of a competitive railroad is responsible for their visit as this new road will double the production of coal in the Pass.

The Party of Progress

There comes a time in the affairs of a town when important vital questions create divisions, which either tend to retard or develop the town's progress. That time has now arrived. The party of progress in the future knows no race, creed or class. It plans on business prospects and builds on strong substantial foundations.

To attain the fullest measure of development our councillors and citizens should act in unison, keeping in mind that only in a greater Coleman, can we best serve the interests paramount to-day. The passing duties of a council, which consists of framing by-laws, civic appointments, financial measures and local improvements, are not of such to make a great stir or commotion. Unless a councillor is prepared by civic legislation to advance commercial pursuits, establish industries, or build connecting roads, he will have earned only the ingratitude of the electorate. He must be large or he will fall. And the sooner he falls the better.

Often a "harmless candidate" is elected under some benign influence. Generally an influence with large interests and a large vote. This benign candidate votes under a spell. He feels the "influence."

The party of progress stands out for a Greater Coleman with no weak-kneed puppets in its party.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The provincial treasury will be well bolstered up by the loan of $1,000,000.00. It will not only enable the Sifton ministry to go on with its popular "Roads and bridges policy," but it will enable the province to present a sound financial front to the A. G. and W. bondholders.

These "railroads on paper" would look better on the South Fork.

The huge horse-like icicles are still roaming the streets looking for a blade of grass.

W. H. Murr has offered a suitable reward for the first stray steam laundry which opens up in Coleman.

Under the statutes a public meeting can be called by the Mayor. Is any councillor afraid that he will be unjustly criticised? The more the council take the ratepayers into their confidence the greater the trust the ratepayers will put in them.

Council Meets

A special meeting of the town council was held on Wednesday night all members were present. A street by-law for the protection of pedestrians was passed.

J. McKeegan was appointed auditor for 1911.

J. K. Cram is seriously ill.

HOCKEY

Frank played their home schedule game on Coleman ice on Monday night. The attendance was much larger than the previous, owing to the mild weather. Many hockey enthusiasts from Frank accompanied the team. Several of the League Association were present, viz., Messrs. Lyon, Blais, Oulmette, Murphy and Shera. The referee was J. McNeil of Blairmore and the timekeepers were W. L. Shera and T. B. Brandon. Coleman was not as strong as usual, but the young player proved quite equal to the occasion, demonstrating that they could play fast hockey. C. Graham, a junior, not only did good work in checking, but scored in the last quarter.

Frank during the first half were extremely dangerous and the score favored. In the last quarter Coleman came back strong winning by the score of 8-3.

To the Editor of the Miner:
Dear Sir—Would you kindly allow me to put before the public the fact that a large majority of Coleman's citizens think that Councillor Shone should resign. He is not able to attend committee meetings and live up to the full duties of his office. I think that Mr. D. Haylen should run as he is now well acquainted with municipal affairs. We require a strong man. Thanking you,

Rod and Gun

Variety, and plenty of it, is the keynote of the January issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, of Woodstock Ontario. The opening article deals with the outfit required for the backwoods and though sportsmen may differ on many of the trimmings, there will be a general agreement as to the essentials. This is followed by a number of personal experiences in hunting, fishing, canoeing and mountaineering throughout Canada, while a paper on the birds of Manitoba and some light verses add materially to the interest of the number and recommend it as one in which sportsmen of all tastes may find something which cannot fail to prove both pleasurable and profitable to themselves. There are a number of items recording occurrences out of the common, showing how vastly experiences in the woods may differ and others reminding sportsmen of similar events on their own trips. The whole is redolent of the outdoors and must act like a tonic in the wintry weather reminding sportsmen of the joys they have had and those which they are anticipating with the keenest of pleasures in the not far distance future.

Athletic World

The January number of The Athletic World, published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ontario, just issued, not only maintains but further develops the national sports policy laid down on the inception of this highly creditable monthly. The seasonable sports treated, the excellent articles pertaining to the important phases of outdoor pastimes and the official information given tell how great a want in the sport life of Canada is being filled by The Athletic World. Its pages are rich in illustrations and timely discussions, making it one of the best yet issued.
